CANTIGNY HEROES
IN TRIUMPHANT
MARCH IN CAPITALVeterans of First Division
Honored By Thousands
In Washington.SAW MUCH BETTER FIGHTING
DURING 93 DAYS AT FRONTCaptured 6467 Germans and 594 Pieces of Enemy Ordnance.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Over historic Pennsylvania avenue the American Way of Victory, marked out more than fifty years ago by the returning blue clad legions of the Army of the Potomac, the First division, American expeditionary force, marched today. It was Washington's first great parade of the war and it was conceived and carried out as the nation's tribute not alone to the veterans fighting men who marched, but to the whole great army the nation created to make certain the utter defeat of German dreams of world conquest.

Marching in mass formation and equipped with all the guns and throwers and countless other death-dealing devices of front line service, the First division, fresh home from France, moved along the broad avenue, a living tide of sunburned fighting men who had filled the street from curb to curb. In their khaki and olive drab uniforms, the men swung by as resolutely as the spring floods of the Mississippi. Above each soldier's head, a new and grim line of bayonets, the blue steel glinting dully as it caught the light. Farther back came the long lines of field guns, French "75's" to which French officers gave the name of "Paris" for their salvation and, after all the trains and wagons had rumbled by, came a battalion of tanks, streaked and yellowed with paint to conceal them from enemy eyes, but here the great crowd clanking their way behind the troops in noisy response to the cheers that greeted them.

There was nothing lacking to make the parade an epitome of the whole army American skill and indomitable will had created to meet and beat the enemy at his own game. There were guns of all the types used in France that could be moved through the streets. Machine guns, big and little, bristled among the riflemen, squat mortars to hurl bombs from the trenches; high mounted rifles which peered forward as though in search of enemy flyers. Some of the guns were horse-drawn, some trundled behind panting motor trucks, or tractors. The show was as complete as the ingenuity (Continued on Page 10, Col. 3)

ONLY TERRITORY BELONGING

Declares Article 11 Provides
land Can Appeal.

On Board President Wilson's Special, Sept. 17.—Setting forth publicly for the first time his interpretation of the League of Nations covenant as it affected Ireland, President Wilson said in a statement today that the league would constitute a forum before which Ireland could bring all claims for self-determination which was likely to affect the peace of the world.

"The covenant would not bind the United States to accept in putting down rebellion in any foreign country," he asserted, "nor would it limit the power of this country to recognize the independence of any people who seek to secure freedom."

Mr. Wilson's case was not heard at Versailles because it did not come within the jurisdiction of the peace conference.

The President's statement was in reply to a series of questions sent to him by the San Francisco labor council. It is understood that within a few days he will reply similarly to questions put by other labor bodies in the States and the representation of the British dominion in the league assembly.

Replying directly to a question as to his attitude toward self-determination, Mr. Wilson said his position was expressed in Article XI of the covenant, under which it is declared that any member nation can call the attention of the league to any circumstances whatever affecting international relations which threatens to disturb the peace of the world.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Sept. 17.—Fifteen additional storm victims were brought to the temporary morgue here today, bringing the known death list in this city up to 62 as a result of the tropical hurricane which swept this section last Sunday.

The total known dead now exceed 160 including 40 at Portland, 40 at White Point, and 13 at Sinton, according to reports here.

The most reliable estimates here today place the loss of life at Corpus Christi, Port Aransas and Aransas Pass at about 250. The bodies being recovered today are in such condition that identification will be almost impossible. A drizzling rain began falling this forenoon handicapping relief workers and adding to the suffering of the homeless.

Corpus Christi, Texas, Sept. 17.—Today more than 70 hours after the tropical hurricane and tidal wave that tore huge rents in this Texas coast city and environs, it was still impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy the toll or damage to property.

Each report from searchers, however, revealed the increasing magnitude of the disaster. It was believed that it might be a week or more before its true extent was known.

PRESIDENT GREETED BY
FRISCO SCHOOL PUPILS

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—President Woodrow Wilson arrived here at 9:30 o'clock today on a special ferry boat from north of the city to the other side.

Seated in an open automobile Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were driven along Market street to the civic Auditorium, the cheering throngs that lined both sides of the thoroughfare giving him a roaring welcome. The civic center, where the President greeted San Francisco school children was gaily decorated. After a brief stay there the party went to their quarters at the St. Francis hotel.

Liabilities are $400,000 assets are $700,000 and personal property $100,000. Extensive advertising has brought numerous buyers who are in the market for a large plant, but whether it will be continued as a coke-making industry is problematic. It is shown that the plant will not be sold below a minimum price.

Steel Corporation Says It
Does Oppose Labor Union.

Pittsburgh, Sept. 17.—The national committee for organizing iron and steel workers went into session here shortly before noon today to take definite action on the matter of postponing the strike of iron and steel workers called for September 22.

Before going into the meeting John Fitzpatrick, Chicago, chairman of national committee, said that unless there was a "last minute" telegram from Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation no postponement of the strike, as requested by president Wilson after the industrial conference at Washington, October 6, would be considered.

Fitzpatrick said the men were fully organized and prepared to walk out next Monday.

The meeting of the national committee was called primarily to make preparations for the proposed strike.

At 2 o'clock the national committee of the steel workers took a recess until 4 o'clock. No announcement was given out after the meeting. Chairman Fitzpatrick when asked concerning the postponement of the projected strike said that thought of such action was a "dream."

The Carnegie Steel company today gave out a letter from E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation, addressed to the presidents of the subsidiary companies plants setting forth the reasons of the corporation for refusing to deal with the unions and explaining the attitude of the company toward the workers.

The letter states that the corporation does not combat labor unions as such and that it does not negotiate with unions because it would indicate the closing of the shops against non-union labor.

"It is the settled determination of the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries," the letter states, "that the wages and working conditions of their employees shall compare favorably with the highest standards of propriety and justice."

It was reported that a telegram has been sent to President Wilson asking him to attend the meeting of the national committee here tomorrow. Labor leaders refused to discuss the report.

The French contingent is said to have remained in Fiume, barricaded in its barracks.

The suitor, giving his name as Charles Gail, and Miss Jessie Longo, from the attic of whose home the girl was rescued by police last night were held for arraignment in police court. Two charges of one kidnapping the girl were lodged against Gail. The woman was held on a charge growing out of her alleged attempt to force the girl to marry Gail.

CIVIL WAR VETERAN RETURNS AFTER
ABSENCE OF NEARLY SIXTY YEARS

Was Not Heard From After He Marched Away With Regiment a Youth in His Twenties—Went West at Close of War.

Leaving Newark with the troops from Licking county for service in the civil war, no word as to his life or death were ever received concerning W. W. Murray, until he visited relatives in Newark Sunday after an absence of nearly 60 years.

The Murray family lived at that time on Sixth and West Church street. W. W. Murray, who is now 79 years old, was a step brother of the late David K. Plato. He enlisted from Newark and went with the boys to war.

In the confusion of the battles, and with the records not well kept, all record of W. W. Murray was lost. He never returned to Newark, and relatives were surprised Sunday when he spent a few hours in Newark.

He now resides at Long Beach, Calif., and with his wife was attending the national convention of the G. A. R. in Columbus.

Knowing that his old home was only a few miles away and hopeful that some of the relatives were still here, he came to Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray left Monday for Washington and a trip further east, but promised to return to Newark on their way home and spend several days.

Well Known Columbus Banker, Former Resident of Newark, Dies in Hospital After Operation.

Charles H. Brown, 54, secretary of the Central Building Loan and Savings company of Columbus, well known to many Newark business men, died this morning at St. Anthony's hospital, Columbus, after an illness of a week.

His death was due to diabetes which developed after an operation last Saturday for appendicitis.

Mr. Brown was a former Newark man and when a boy was an Advocate carrier. He went to Zanesville and later to Columbus, where by his own effort he attained a position of prominence in banking and business circles.

He was personally known to many Newark business men and bankers having many warm friends in this city.

Mr. Brown was active in the Columbus Rotary club and served as district president of the Rotarians.

No word has been received here regarding the funeral arrangements.

FIREMEN DEMONSTRATE

tion though the crank is necessary to lift the extension section to its greatest height.

The life net was not demonstrated Tuesday.

While the demonstrations were in progress a number of photographs were taken by H. H. Mueller, Arcade photographer. Later in the afternoon, all the apparatus was lined up in front of fire headquarters and a panorama picture of the entire fire fighting brigade was made.

Tuesday evening a reception and open house at fire headquarters was held. City officials and firemen acted as hosts and the invited guests were Newark taxpayers and business men.

The capacity of the fire station was taxed throughout the evening. Apparatus was explained to the visitors by the firemen who are proud not only of the equipment which has been provided for them but also of their new quarters which have been thoroughly overhauled and rebuilt during the past 18 months.

During the evening addresses were made by George H. Hamilton, H. P. Moninger, C. L. H. Long and Mr. Crouse, representative of the Seagraves company which has furnished practically all of the apparatus.

Assistant Fire Chief Daniels of the Columbus fire department was one of the guests during the afternoon and evening and he commented favorably upon the manner in which the new apparatus is handled by the Newark firemen and upon the splendid quality of the fire fighting equipment.

The Seagraves apparatus has been favored by Newark officials not only because of its merit and quality, but because of the fact that the plant being located in Columbus, makes the procuring of repairs a simple proposition. Within a few hours after the repairs are needed, they can be brought to Newark, reducing the length of time to the minimum which any of the apparatus must be out of service.

Newark officials hope that the demonstration Tuesday will result in the reduction of fire insurance rates appreciably soon. Among the guests were inspectors from the state department fixing fire insurance rates. They were impressed with the completeness of the equipment, the efficiency of the men in which it was handled, and the increase in the size of the department.

Within the year, one new fire company has been added to the city's fire fighting force and two extra vehicles. The squad wagon at headquarters and the South Newark truck are the new additions, the South Newark truck meaning an addition of four men to the personnel. Practically all of the fire trucks are less than a year old and each is the last word in fire fighting machines.

During the reception at headquarters, punch and water were served to the guests by the young ladies of the public service department. They were Misses Gore, Irvin, Dush and Fry.

Among the out of town officials who witnessed the demonstration and attended the reception were: Fire Chief Daniels of Columbus, Fire Chief Miller of Bucyrus, Fire Chief Joseph E. Cross of Portsmouth, City Electrician Shoemaker, the mayor and two city officials from Cambridge. Messrs. Shaddock, Lee and Crouse of the Seagraves Fire Apparatus company of Columbus, Henry Pratt of the Eureka Hose company of Columbus, and a representative from the Ohio bureau of inspection at Columbus.

THIEF GETS GOLD FROM OFFICE OF DENTIST

While Dr. C. V. Prior was absent from his office for a few minutes this morning, some one entered the office and got away with $30 worth of gold.

Dr. Prior stepped to another floor in the building and when he returned the gold in plates, solder, teeth and scrap cuttings, which was in a little drawer had been removed and the part of gold bridge which was on the work table had been taken.

The police department was notified, but no one had been seen about the office.

WATCH GIRL'S FRIENDSHIPS IS ADVICE TO PARENTS

In Dr. J. Aspinall McCaig's people of Newark are unquestionably coming in touch with one of whom children's children will talk. For an hour and a half last night in the First Baptist church, men and women sat under his magic spell, as he discussed courtship and love and its relation to conjugal happiness.

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Central Church of Christ, Dr. McCaig will bring to a close his work in Newark when he will deliver his lecture on "A Twenty Century Tragedy—The Jangling of John Erbie."

The period of courtship in a girl's life," declared Dr. McCaig in his lecture last evening, is the most critical period of her experience—the time when the wonder of love is unfolding within her, and reaching out to find an answer in another life. At this time, more than any other, the girl needs the brooding care of an enlightened father and a loving mother.

"It is a time of unfolding realities,

The most spectacular fire in the history of the New York fire department recently destroyed over $2,000,000 worth of oil at the Long Island plant of the Standard Oil Company. Half a hundred firemen and as many employees and spectators were injured during the fire. The fire department fought the fire several days before extinguishing it. It was the first time in the department's history that the call "6666-77" was sent out to summon every available fireman off duty.

A. L. U. MEMBERS HERE TO ATTEND MEETING

A number of the members of Newark chapter, American Insurance Union, will take part in the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the parent organization at Columbus, September 21, 22 and 23.

Monday evening at Memorial hall, the real celebration will take place. National President John J. Lentz, will preside and addresses will be made by Thomas E. Marshall, vice president of the United States, Actuary George Dyre Eldridge of Boston and Judge Todd E. Galloway, first national treasurer of the American Insurance Union. IRELAND'S CLAIMS international peace or the good understanding between nations upon which peace depends.

The President's statement regarding the labor council's question and his answers follows:

"1. Under the covenant does the nation obligate itself to assist any member of the league in putting down a rebellion of its subjects or conquered peoples? Answer: It does not."

"2. Under the covenant can this nation independently recognize a government whose people seek to achieve or have achieved their independence from a member of the league? Answer: The independent action of the government of the United States in a matter of this kind is in no way limited or affected by the covenant of the League of Nations."

"3. Under the covenant are those subject nations or peoples only that are mentioned in the peace treaty, entitled to the right of self-determination, or does the league possess the right to accord a similar privilege to other subject nations or peoples? Answer: It is not possible for the peace conference to act with regard to the self-determination of any territories, except those which had belonged to the defeated empires, but in the covenant of the League of Nations it has set up for the first time, in Article 10, a forum to which all claims of self-determination which are likely to disturb the peace of the world or the good understanding between nations upon which the peace of the world depends can be brought."

"4. Why was the case of Ireland not heard at the peace conference? And what is your position on the subject of self-determination for Ireland? Answer: The case of Ireland was not heard at the peace conference between the peace conference had no jurisdiction over any question of that sort which did not effect territories which belonged to the defeated empires. My position on the subject of self-determination for Ireland is expressed in Article XI of the covenant in which I may say I was particularly interested, because it seemed to me necessary for the peace and freedom of the world that a forum should be created, to which all peoples could bring any matter which was likely to affect the peace and freedom of the world."

WAR VETERAN WEDS ZANESVILLE GIRL

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Ethel M. Moore of Zanesville and Mr. Harry E. Matthews of Newark, which took place in Detroit, Monday, September 15.

Mr. Matthews is the son of Mrs. George Karicoff of East Main street, and was a bagpiper with the 43rd Highlanders, Canadian army. He returned from overseas in April after being in France for two years.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore of the South River road. She has been employed in Columbus and Washington for the past two years. Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will make their home in Detroit.

DR. WYETH GOES AFTER CAR STOLEN SEPT. 7

A telegram was received late yesterday afternoon by Dr. C. L. Wyeth, from Hammond, Ind., telling him that the car being held at a garage meets all the descriptions of his car which was stolen a week ago Sunday in North Fifth street.

The machine a Cole-S was left in a garage at Hammond for repairs, and the drivers failed to return for it. Dr. Wyeth left last night to get the machine.

GRANVILLE

A farewell party was given by the Portnightly club at the home of Mrs. Conson in honor of Miss Anna Lyon, who for a number of years has been a member of the club, and a teacher in the Newark public schools, and who leaves in a few days to spend the winter with her brother, B. Lyon of Charleston, W. Va. The other guests of honor were Mrs. Crawford, another member of the club, wife of Rev. B. F. Crawford, who leaves Granville to take up the duties as pastor of the Second Methodist church of Columbus. Mrs. Conson sang two solos to her own accompaniment. Mrs. Farish gave a group of humorous readings, after which the guests vied with one another as to who could tell the wittiest story. Then all engaged in a fortune telling game. Before the delightful refreshments, in which the club colors of white and green were carried out, were served by the social committee, a beautiful basket of flowers was presented to each guest of honor.

LLOYD GEORGE TO SPEAK

London, Sept. 17.—Premier Lloyd George's return to England last night from his vacation at Deauville, France, and a brief visit in Paris, will be followed tonight by his address at the London city temple and which, in view of the extreme political and economic unrest prevailing in the country is awaited with keenest curiosity and interest.

Just because a fellow is in the swim don't jump to the conclusion that he has a clean record.

SAYS AMERICANS GET BULK OF GERMAN TRADE

Cologne, Aug. 25.—(By Mail).—British business men have taken notice of the strides made by Americans in acquiring trade with Germany. At a meeting in Cologne recently of directors of the British Chamber of Commerce for Germany, G. Knott of London, said:

"America has more than 1,700 Chambers of Commerce in all parts of the world, and these associated chambers some time ago sent a delegation to Europe which visited Cologne and Berlin and departed with German orders in fabulous amounts. The goods are to be delivered at once on three years' credit. In this way the United States is securing the lion's share of Germany's import trade. Such is the result of the co-operation of their chambers of commerce. I see no reason why British Chambers of Commerce cannot employ such methods."

200 MAY BE DEAD

may conceal numerous bodies it is believed, and today hundreds of men were at work exploring them.

Officials generally were agreed that the death list would be excess of 100 and some unofficial estimates placed it as high as between 200 and 300 with hundreds of persons injured or suffering from exposure.

Estimates of the property loss varied from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000.

The best available information here today placed the known dead in Corpus Christi at 47. Seventy seven bodies, all blackened and bruised, were reported to have been washed ashore last night on the northern side of Nueces Bay, upon which Corpus Christi is situated. Of the 77 bodies, the report said, 35 were taken from West Portland, 29 from White Pond and nine from Sinton and one from Odessa. Other points along the beach and the washing ashore of bodies during the night.

Military officials were exerting every resource today to ascertain the fate of 20 or more soldiers who were washed out into the bay while the storm was at its height, and of whom there had been round no trace. The men, members of Company I, 37th infantry, and other regiments on border duty were at the government rest camp here for a week end furlough when the camp was washed away.

Captain B. M. Egeland of Webster, S. D., camp commander was drowned during the storm and his wife also is believed to have lost her life.

Attempts were being made to right several boats to cross Nueces Bay to rescue 25 persons who are reported in desperate straits at White Point.

A message from Judge P. A. Hunter of Roca, Texas, was brought into Corpus Christi today, saying 25 bodies were at White Point and that 25 refugees there were starving. All bodies recovered at White Point will be buried there by a military squad because of the lack of coffins here and because no boats are available with which to transport them seven miles across the bay.

Reports from other smaller towns in the path of the storm stated that the authorities were burying bodies, some unidentified, as rapidly as possible, for sanitary reasons.

Although business here was at a standstill and fire communication desensitized, a more cheerful spirit seemed to pervade the city today, due largely, officials thought, to the arrival of relief trains with food and supplies for the thousands made destitute by the storm.

Any strange incidents are coming to light as the story of the storm unfolds. Floating on the open bay more than two days a ten months old baby was hauled to shore late yesterday, fastened to a raft. The baby was alive and in fairly good condition.

A DISCOVERY THAT BENEFITS MANKIND

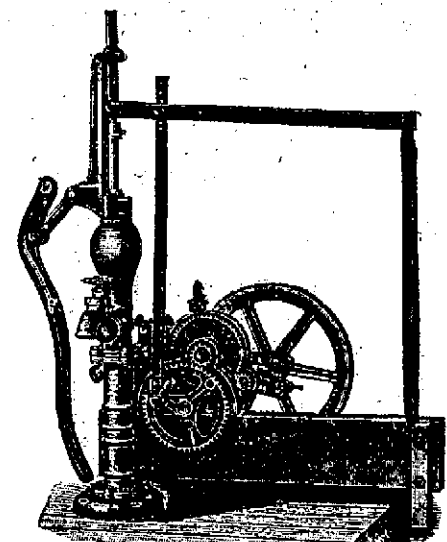

Two discoveries have added greatly to human welfare.

In 1835 Newton originated the vacuum process for condensing milk with cane sugar to a semi-liquid form.

In 1883 Horlick at Racine, Wis., discovered how to reduce milk to a dry powder form with extract of malted grains, without cane sugar.

This product HORLICK named Malted Milk. (Name since copied by others.) Its nutritive value, digestibility and ease of preparation (by simply stirring in water) and the fact that it keeps in any climate, has proved of much value to mankind as an ideal food-drink from infancy to old age.

Cocoon Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoon oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoon oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

MODIFY TREATY AND YOU KILL IT

Minority In Foreign Relations Committee Thus Challenges Report of Lodge Majority.

WORLD PEACE IN BALANCE

Until Treaty Becomes Effective Ferment In Financial and Industrial World Will Continue.

Washington, D. C.—(Special).—The minority members of the senate committee on foreign relations made their report today to the senate on the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant. The report was signed by Senators Hitchcock, Williams, Swanson, Pomerene, Smith and Pittman.

The report is a direct challenge to the majority report of the committee made to the senate yesterday, which recommended a number of amendments and reservations to the treaty and covenant. The minority report declares that the adoption by the senate of these amendments or reservations would kill the present treaty and necessitate the reopening of negotiations with the allies and Germany.

The report is a plea to the senate and the country for ratification of the treaty without amendment or reservation, to the end that industrial conditions be stabilized on the basis of world peace, guaranteed by the nations of the world organized in a league of nations.

"The industrial world is in ferment," says the report, "the financial world in doubt and commerce halts while this great delay in the peace settlement has been caused by the majority of a committee known to be out of harmony with the majority of the senate and the majority of the people. This is government by obstruction as well as by a minority."

"Our export trade already shows the undeniable effects of delay and doubt in treaty ratification and peace settlement. For the first seven months following the armistice, our exports averaged almost $700,000,000 per month, but in July they fell to $570,000,000. Europe undoubtedly wants our products, but can only take them in full quantity if our financial institutions provide the credit to bridge over the period necessary to restore European industry to productivity. This private credit can not and will not be furnished as long as the peace settlement is in doubt. Public credit has heretofore carried this great balance of trade."

"Our government, however, has not reached the end of its authority given by congress and will advance but little more. From now on if we are to keep up our commerce with Europe private enterprise must furnish the credit to cover the trade balance till European industries get started and are able to pay us with their goods. Peace settlement delays and doubts paralyze this revival. If uncertainty continues, depression is inevitable."

"Referring to the action of the majority of the committee, we unite in opposing and condemning the recommendations both as to textual amendments and as to proposed reservations. In our opinion amendments have no merit, but whether they be good, bad or indifferent, their adoption by the senate can have no possible effect except to defeat the participation of the United States in the treaty. None of them could by any possibility be accepted even by the great nations associated with the United States in the war and none of them could by any possibility be dictated to Germany. To adopt any one of them, therefore, is equivalent to rejecting the treaty."

Sacrifices of Majority Report.
"To adopt an amendment or to reject the treaty means that the United States will sacrifice all of the concessions secured from Germany by a dictated peace. Among the concessions which the United States would sacrifice by the adoption of any amendment or the rejection of the treaty may be included the following:

"First—Germany's acknowledgment of responsibility for the war and her promise to make restitution for damages resulting from it.

"Second—Germany's promise to us in the treaty that she will not impose higher or other customs duties or charges on our goods than those charged to the most favored nation and will not prohibit or restrict, or discriminate against, imports directly or indirectly from our country.

"Third—Germany's promise to us in the treaty that she will make no discrimination in German ports on shipping bearing our flag, and that our shipping in German ports will be given as favorable treatment as German ships receive.

"Fourth—That for six months after the treaty goes into effect no customs duty will be levied against imports from the United States, except the lowest duties that were in force for the first six months of 1914.

"Fifth—Germany's agreement with us that the United States shall have the privilege of reviving such of the treaties with Germany as were in existence prior to the war as we may alone desire.

"Sixth—Germany's promise to us to restore the rights of our citizens seized in Germany, or to compensate the owners.

"Seventh—Germany's very important agreement validating all acts by the United States by the alien property custodian, by which we seized and proceeded to liquidate $800,000,000 worth of property in the United States belonging to German citizens.

"Eighth—Germany's agreement that the proceeds of the sale of these properties may be used to compensate our citizens in Germany if Germany fails to do so, or to pay debts which Germany or Germans owe to American citizens, or to pay American pre-war claims against Germany for property destroyed and lives taken similar to the losses because of the destruction of the Lusitania.

"Ninth—Germany's agreement that she will compensate her own citizens for property, patents and other things belonging to them in the United States seized during the war by our government.

"Tenth—Germany's agreement that no claim can be made against the United States in respect to the use or sale during the war by our government, or by persons acting for our government, of any rights in industrial, literary or artistic property, including patents.

"Eleventh—Germany's agreement that the United States shall retain over 500,000 tons of German shipping seized in American ports, which much more than compensates for shipping lost during the war.

"Twelfth—We would lose our membership on the reparations commission, which will be the most powerful international body ever created and which will have enormous control over the trade and commerce of Germany with the rest of the world for years to come. It not only supervises the use of German economic resources and the payment of reparations, but it can restrict or expand Germany's imports and distributes much of her desirable exports, including dyes. In no way can the United States assure itself against discrimination in German imports and financial policies unless we have a member upon this great reparations commission.

Against Any Amendments.

"We are, therefore, without any qualification, against amendments."

"The reservations proposed by the majority of this committee are of such a character as to at once betray their authorship. They are the work of senators organized for the purpose of destroying the league and, if possible, defeating this treaty. Their phraseology is such as make this purpose plain. They are in no sense interpretive reservations to be used to make clear language in the treaty that might be considered doubtful, but they are so framed as to receive the support of senators who desire the defeat of the treaty. While masquerading in the guise of reservations, they are in fact alterations of the treaty. They have all the vices of amendments and the additional vice of pretending to be what they are not. Presented as parts of the resolution to ratify the treaty they would in fact, if adopted, result in its defeat. All of them apply to the League of Nations section of the treaty."

"Those who oppose the League of Nations realize that it is invincible on a square fight, and they hope to destroy it by this indirection. The League of Nations has stood the test of a world-wide criticism and unlimited attack. It stands today as the only hope for world peace. After all the assaults of many months, its purposes and provisions stand out clearly defined, unaffected by criticism and unyielding to attack."

"The League of Nations proposes to organize the nations of the world for peace, whereas they have always heretofore been organized for war. It proposes to establish the rule of international justice in place of force. It proposes to make a war of conquest impossible by uniting all nations against the offenders."

Weak Nations Given Strength.

"It is the first international arrangement ever made by which small and weak nations are given the organized strength of the world for protection. It is a working plan for the gradual reduction of armament by all members simultaneously, in proper proportion and by agreement."

"It sets up arbitration as a friendly method of adjusting disputes and inquiry when arbitration is not agreed to. In both cases it provides a cooling-off period of nine months, during which the differences will be adjusted."

"It preserves the territorial integrity and political independence of each member, and leaves to each the exercise of its sovereign rights as a nation."

"It will save the world from wars and preparations for wars. It will reduce armies and navies and taxes. It is the only plan proposed to redeem the world from war, pestilence and famine, the only one by which a stricken world can be redeemed from the disasters of the late war and the dangers of impending international chaos. Those who daily and delay as they seek with microscope to find some petty flaw in its structure have nothing themselves to propose. They have appealed to every prejudice and resorted to every desperate method of attack to destroy this great international effort to establish peace, but they suggest nothing in its place."

"We renew our recommendation that the work of the peace conference be confirmed, the will of the people fulfilled, and the peace of the world advanced by the ratification of this treaty, 'the best hope of the world,' even if, like all human instrumentalities, it be not divinely perfect in every detail."

ENGLISH SEE MENACE IN MANY BIGAMISTS

London, Aug. 20.—(By Mail).—Increase in bigamous marriages throughout the United Kingdom, much more pronounced since the end of the war, is causing grave concern, and there is a growing disposition to treat bigamy as a venial offence.

Sir Bernard Mallet, the registrar-general, is credited with the statement that English marriage laws afford less security against bigamy than the laws of almost any other civilized state. His department has prepared proposals for their amendment, but nothing has been done to carry them into effect. A new act of parliament is necessary, and Sir Bernard suggests as a preliminary that some plan be outlined by which accurate information concerning the principals in a proposed marriage may be obtained by the competent authorities before the ceremony can be performed. For marriage by license in England it is required that both parties make solemn declaration that they know of no impediment to their union, that they have resided for 15 days in the district, and, if they are minors, the consent of guardian or parents has been obtained. But no solemn declaration is required for such material particulars as name, condition as to marriage, age, rank and residence.

MEXICANS DENY JAPS GET OIL CONCESSIONS

Mexico City, Aug. 22.—(By Mail).—The department of industry and commerce denies emphatically that Japanese interests have acquired any petroleum holdings in Mexico, but says parties of Japanese geologists have visited the republic recently on a tour of exploration and have located oil deposits on the Pacific coast.

The departmental denial came as the result of stories emanating from the United States that Japanese capitalists were negotiating for the transfer of large petroleum holdings in the Tampico district.

El Monitor recently interviewed a Japanese, R. E. Douari, who was sent to be a member of the oriental exploration party. He asserted that the Pacific coast had been thoroughly covered in the search for oil and that large deposits of the later had been found. He also asserted that Japan needs Mexican oil for commercial purposes and attempted to acquire that product but it has no intention of buying leases, developed or undeveloped, on the Atlantic coast.

WILHELM NO LONGER INTERESTS HOLLANDERS

Amerongen, Holland, Aug. 16.—(By Mail).—A few bicycling tourists occasionally stop and peer through the gates of the Bentinck estate in hope of catching a glimpse of the former German Emperor, but were it not for them and for the presence of the state police guards who languidly pace up and down the road about the castle walls, Amerongen would seem to have completely forgotten that William Hohenzollern was in voluntary exile there.

The doings of the former ruler and his small "court" inside the castle have ceased even to be a topic of village gossip. Once a week, perhaps, someone may mention him, wondering how long he will be in Holland, and then ensue a series of weighty, expressed, judicial opinions, the gist of which is that Amerongen doesn't believe the Allies will ever attempt to bring him to trial at all, and that William of Hohenzollern will settle down and become a Dutch country gentleman. It is seldom that real information regarding his doings trickles out of the walls and moats of the estate.

BRITISH LIQUOR MEN PLAN BETTER SALOONS

London, Aug. 21.—(By Mail).—Better public houses, an improved tone for saloons, is the newly announced policy of the British liquor trade.

Rear Admiral Sir Reginald Hall, a member of Parliament, who was recently elected to the directorate of one of the leading brewing companies of the kingdom, said that representatives of all sections of the trade had drawn up a bill embodying such principles as promotion of sobriety, restriction of drunkenness, reduction of the number of licenses, where they are excessive and enlargement of premises so as to provide greater opportunities for social amenities.

"Recreation, including reading rooms, facilities for writing, music games, should be provided," Admiral Hall said. The entry into the trade of those who would set up and maintain a high social standard should be encouraged to the exclusion of those who might bring discredit on the industry."

FRENCH SEEK FUEL SUBSTITUTE FOR AUTOS

Paris, Aug. 20.—(By Mail).—The government has authorized experiments with a benzol and alcohol mixture as a substitute for gasoline in automobile engines, in view of the high price of the latter—a dollar a gallon. While benzol used alone and undistilled gives more power than gasoline, it has an objectionable odor and chauffeurs who have tried it assert that it corrodes carburetors and cylinders. Both these disadvantages, it is claimed, may be to some extent removed by mixing the benzol with alcohol or ether or both.

WHAT THE CONSTITUTION HAS DONE.

The constitution of the United States has been viewed with a reverence paid to no other writing except the Bible. All over the world oppressed peoples have looked to it with longing. They have wished that they might come here and live under such a system, or might adopt a similar basis of government in their own land. Copies of the Constitution dropped from airplanes were an important factor in covering the German people of the fault of their own government.

Yet with all this reverence, many people never read this sublime document. Some consider it outworn and want to overturn it by revolution. To counteract this propaganda, the idea was conceived of holding a Constitution Day on September 17, the anniversary of the signing of the document, the purpose of which should be to popularize the Constitution and call attention to the blessings it has brought.

People who find fault with existing social conditions do well if they would read this constitution, and see how completely it gives all power into the hands of the people. If the people are not being justly treated, they have the power in their own hands. If they don't remedy existing evils, the fault is not in the system. It is in the people that have these rights and privileges, but either do not exercise them at all, or use them without judgment.

The American people have a reason to be well satisfied with what they have achieved under this constitution. They have opened the doors of opportunity so that any boy or girl can get an education. The higher ranks of success are filled with those who started from humble homes.

In the schools the United States constitution should be a subject of constant study. Every boy and girl should be shown how it has made this country the most prosperous and happy on the globe.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

No kind of work can go forward prosperously and efficiently unless the workers turn up promptly every day. This is true in school work just as much as in running a factory or a railroad. Many parents do not realize this. If they want to have their children mind the baby while they go to a picture show, they have the children stay at home.

School pupils are kept out for all kinds of frivolous excuses. Then these careless parents complain if the children do not make good progress.

School attendance laws should be rigidly enforced. The tax payers put up the money for good schools, because it is only by education that democratic government can be made safe. Having provided the enormous amount of money necessary to run these schools they have the right to ask the children attend regularly and get the benefit.

Parents here in Newark who do not co-operate should be given the privilege of an interview with the local court.

General Pershing has lost no friends and suffered nothing in prestige for his refusal to appear before a Republican committee on "Investigation" and apologize for winning the war under a Democratic administration.

SIMPLIFYING COURT PROCEDURE.

One of the causes of the present industrial unrest, is that people lack confidence in the administration of justice. The feeling prevails among many, that there is one law for the poor man and another of the rich. A wealthy individual or corporation can often so tie up justice by long and involved court procedure, that the ordinary man is helpless against it.

Chief Justice Winslow of Wisconsin who led the discussion at one of the meetings of the American Bar Association at Boston, told the lawyers assembled some truths that should be heard and met with response all over the country.

He said that one of the duties of lawyers, is to help on the movement to simplify court procedure. The law schools he said should train their men to accomplish this end.

The way many cases drag along in the courts is preposterous. A small case should be put through in a few weeks. Dilatory motions should not be permitted. The system of appeals should be so arranged that trifling cases could not be held up a long time.

A great deal of the trouble is due to the fact that the lawyers and courts are busy and have more work than they can do. The tendency is for litigants to resort to the most experienced lawyers in the neighborhood whose time is so taken up that their cases are badly delayed. At the same time there may be many reasonably competent men who would rather have time to put cases along, if people would employ them. There should be some penalty for delay when it is caused unnecessarily. There should be judges enough so that the courts could hear all cases promptly, as soon as they are ready for trial. The time of the upper courts should not be taken up by having trifling cases appealed to them.

When justice becomes prompt and speedy, a great deal of popular discontent will disappear.

TOWN AND COUNTRY BOY.

Formerly the town boy looked with contempt on his country cousin. He visited him condescendingly in summer vacation, and was amused at and patronized his rusticity. The country boy longed for the excitement of town and city life, and he got away from his home surroundings at the earliest possible moments.

These few years have seen a tremendous movement to interest country boys in country life. Now these youngsters have their potato clubs, calf and pig clubs and garden clubs and so on. A great many of them are farming on their own hook in a small way and attaining an independent position. When the town cousin comes out in the country now, the city boy is envious of the fat calves and pigs and fertile garden that are giving his formerly despised relative a big start towards business success.

What can be done in cities and village centers for the boys whose parents live on small lots of land and where there is less chance for them to engage in little enterprises on their own initiative?

Ten years ago, two-thirds of these boys spent their spare hours in idleness. In these busy times most towns give industrious boys plenty of chances to work. But the great trouble with the town boy is that it is so easy for him to spend money. He is a constant patron of movie shows. Money fairly flows from his pocket for laces and candy and chewing gum. What these boys need is an education in thrift.

When the town boy arrives at manhood he may have earned as much as the country boy with his calf and garden clubs, but it is doubtful if he has saved as much, and it isn't what one earns but what he saves that counts.

In the old days the pioneers used to blaze trail through the woods by cutting notches in the trees along the way. Nowadays the motorists still bark the trees and telegraph poles along the roadside with their skidding autos.

The President's trip around the country is welcomed by the people who have plug hats and jim-swinger coats to sell to the reception committees.

Among those that believe that a fool can ask questions which a wise man can't answer, are the fellows who are taking college exams this fall.

Some husbands are sore at the extravagance of their wives who have been caught in the act of looking in at the milliners' windows.

One consolation in the anarchist situation is that when a fool gets hold of explosives he is more likely to blow himself up than anyone else.

The pupil who displays a very keen interest in his school book is frequently illustrating it with free hand sketches of the teacher.

No one any longer asks at a railroad station whether the train is late. The question is "How late is the train?"

An' he laded on so thick about where Less was a-going at that he jest about scared the life outen him. So Less he went up in front an' an' set out to pray fer him an' we awl done so. Next nite along about midnight Rev. Talker was waked up outen a sound sleep by the most offle yelling you ever heard. He got up an' looked outen the window an' there was Less an' Will B. Drunker a-walking up an' down in front of the parsonage, a-saying the arms an' yelling something scandalous. So the Rev. Talker he says, "What do you mean by such conduct?" he says, offle severe. "Why it's our religion," says they. "Religion," says the Rev. offle aback. "Well," says he, "I have religion boys, but I don't get up at midnight an' go an' wake every body up to tell them about it," says he. "Well, meebly you don't," says Less, "but we hain't ashamed of ours," he says.

He'll Scare Us Into It.
Ever since our dentist installed an X-Ray apparatus we imagine he looks that if an epistle takes longer to print than to write the loss of time is more than compensated by the greater speed with which it can be read, and the argument seems, one naturally, to be making more and more converts. One cannot carry a typewriter in one's pocket as one can a fountain pen, but if one printed legibly with the fountain pen instead of "dashing off" something with it, life would be as happy for one's correspondents as if printed typewriters were a commonplace. Some say that letter-writing is becoming a lost art; perhaps letter printing would restore it.

Alleged Coal Shortage.
(Newark Evening News)
Director General Hines of the railroad administration warns the senate of a danger to the country in a possible exaggeration of a bituminous coal shortage which might set a precedent for undue increase in prices. There is something to be explained about the shortage of bituminous coal which is said to threaten us. If there is actual shortage of bituminous coal production, as compared with a normal year, it is in the anthracite field production is now exceedingly the output of normal years. Anthracite output in July was more than 8,000,000 tons as compared with less than 7,000,000 tons in the year 1916, conceded to be a normal period. In July 1917 the similar output was 6,700,000 tons and in July of 1918 7,000,000, but this was admittedly due to spreading up under the demand of the war. The first six months of the year 1919 production was off in the anthracite regions as compared with 1916, but only a little more than 2,000,000 tons. At the present rate of production the total output of 1919 ought to exceed that of 1918.

The shortage which is said to exist in the bituminous industry is said to lack of demand. If that is true the situation is rather strange. Our manufacturers have too much business to hold back coal orders. There has been no such let up in industrial activity as to suggest a much diminished demand. It is just possible that some industries have large supplies of coal on hand when peace came and that their orders are smaller this year. Or is the output of this year compared with that of normal years when the necessities of war greatly increased the demand and induced mining up? And how much have large exports to do with the situation?

Mr. Hines suggests an official inquiry to ascertain the extent to which predictions of an abnormal demand for the coming winter are a consequent shortage are justified. We have a flood of inquiries but this one seems meritorious. It would pen the way for remedy if there is actually a threatened shortage and expose the claims if propaganda is chiefly responsible for the alarms.

RAILROAD FUTURE.

(By Henry Clews.)
The railroad question will very soon come up before Congress for active discussion. The administration is holding the coming winter as a consequent shortage are justified. We have a flood of inquiries but this one seems meritorious. It would pen the way for remedy if there is actually a threatened shortage and expose the claims if propaganda is chiefly responsible for the alarms.

LETTER PRINTING.
(Christian Science Monitor.)
The movement among the British educators to have the children taught to print their letters apparently goes forward; one may believe that it will eventually spread throughout Anglo-Saxondom, if only because the use of typewriters is making people more and more discontented with their penmanship with the puzzle in penmanship. The argument of the British educators is at us with an expression that says more plainly than words that he puts positive we have pus sacs at the roots of our teeth.

Did You Know
That attar of roses is the volatile oil of rose petals obtained by distillation? It is a nearly colorless solid at temperatures below 80 degrees Fahrenheit, liquefying a little above that temperature. Roses are cultivated for this purpose in Syria, Persia, India and Turkey. Ghazipur, near Benares, is celebrated for its fields of roses and Cashmere, Shiraz, and Damascus are also noted for the extensive manufacture of this perfume. The rose petals are usually distilled with about twice their weight of water and this is exposed to the cool night air in open vessels, from which the thin film of the attar is skimmed with a feather in the morning. Four hundred thousand roses are required to make one ounce of attar.

Spirit of the Press
A Small Bag.
Four or five bandits were killed by the American troops in Mexico. This is good as far as it goes. The border cutthroats of the Rio Grande region merit relentless extermination. Jesus Rentiera, the kidnapper who held two American lieutenants for ransom, has probably escaped. But Rentiera is only one of his kind, and probably no worse than the one who got the American bullet. It is no more clear that the expedition was no more than a small hunt for bandits. It was not the beginning of anything serious. When the banks came in contact with a body of Mexican federal troops they politely withdrew. The Mexican situation remains undurable. There is no adequate authority in the country. Sooner or later, with or without a league of nations mandate, the United States must take steps to make Mexico passably decent. The world regards Mexico as Uncle Sam's white man's burden.—Cleveland Plain-Dealer.

Spain Reaping the Whirlwind.
The inevitable is happening in the Spanish zone in Morocco. During the entire period of the war, the zone was made the headquarters of German intrigue and propaganda. Only the most inept military efforts were made to guard this fact. Now, it is not of course, and never was necessary to know the Spanish motives in this matter in order to pass judgment upon the Spanish attitude. The moment the world realized that the war was a great moral struggle, the issue of which was so simple that a child could not err in reading it, from that moment the world, all the world that mattered at any rate ceased to be in the motives of those who fought against it, or were indifferent to its struggles. Spain might declare, as she did, through one of her former statesmen, the Count de Romanones, that she had not part in the matter, and that "absolute neutrality" was the only right and honorable position for her to adopt. Such statements deceived no one. The allied world placed Spain quite inevitably where she belonged.—Charleston Science Monitor.

CANADA OFFERS JOBS TO ENGLISH SOLDIERS

London, Aug. 20.—(By Mail.)—Canada is offering a cordial reception to demobilized British soldiers who have not found in England satisfactory employment upon their return to civilian pursuits. North American emigration is being suggested as possible solution of England's pressing resettlement problem.

While all British emigrants will be welcomed, Canada is particularly warm for the coming of professional men. Canadian professional societies are said to be prepared to give special preference to men of this class. Qualified accountants, chemical and forestry interests, for instance, have many positions which it is hoped may be filled through absorption of this excess of British professional men.

LIFE HOLDS NOTHING BETTER

Man That Has Contentment in His Heart Need Seek No Further for Happiness.

Discontent with his lot in life is the great curse of the man of ordinary estate in this world. To have the things that are beyond his reach consumes him with a ceaseless fire. Such men, as a rule, have enough and to spare, but this does not seem to satisfy them. If they would only determine to be content with what they have they would be happy.

The consequence is that they make a dismal failure of a life that could easily have been a great success as far as their happiness is involved. And, without happiness it were better that a man had not lived at all.

Then we have the man who has all the wealth and power and maybe all the glory that he craves, but who is in constant fear that it will be taken away from him; that he will lose his worldly possessions or that somebody will rob him of the limelight.

Contentment never sleeps under the roof of such a man. Wherefore, of what good to him is all that he has?

Now, if the man who wants that which is beyond his reach could school himself to be like Paul, "content in whatsoever state" he found himself, he would get things out of life that he never dreamed of. He would sleep soundly and awake in gladness. And if the man who has all the wealth he had craved could school himself to feel that it wouldn't matter if he were to lose it all, he would also sleep soundly and awake in gladness.

Who among us that would wish to go through life and miss the biggest thing there is in life? Well, the least man on earth can have that big thing for his very own simply by a motion of the mind that God gave him when he was born.

The big thing in life—its name is Contentment. It lies at your feet. Take it up and let it warm you.—Utica Globe.

VENICE HAD FIRST THEATRE

Buildings Designed Solely for Performances Were Erected in the Italian City in the Year 1629.

The theater proper began in Venice in 1629, when comedy and melodrama, hitherto presented on temporary stages erected in the squares or in the halls of palaces, passed into buildings especially made for that purpose. Pompeo Molmenti, the Italian historian, relates that the earliest genuine musical drama heard in Venice was the Proserpinarapita of Giulio Strozzi, set to music by Claudio Monteverde. From 1637 onward theaters rose so rapidly that by the close of the Seventeenth century numbered 18 in Venice; some were devoted to comedy, others to music, others again were used indifferently for comedy or melodrama. Almost all the theaters belonged to noblemen who reserved boxes for themselves and took the rest for the buffet. The Council of Ten settled the hour of the performance and the length of time it might take. The advertisements were posted at the piazzetta and at Rialto, while criers went through the town to announce the play and the hour when the house would open.

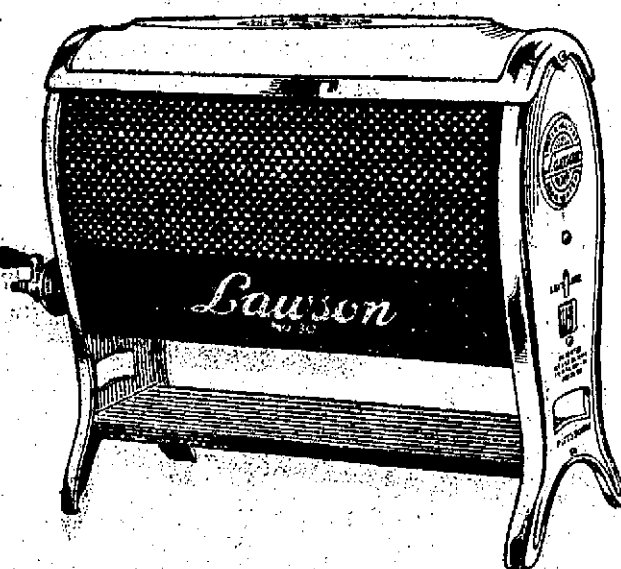

The Money Cowry.
The occurrence of the money cowry in Iceland and England has a curious origin. This species, a native of the tropics, is used as current coin in certain parts of Africa. Some years ago it was very abundant on the coast of Cumberland near the mouth of the Calder river. The specimens are believed to have come from the Glendown, a vessel wrecked off Seascale in a fog in 1873. She was homeward bound from Manna and carried 60 tons of cowries as part of her cargo. As this means about 70,000,000 shells, it may well be that money cowries will be picked up on our northwestern coasts for many years to come. Those found earlier on the coasts of Down, Ireland, were supposed to have come from a slave ship wrecked in the neighborhood.

South African Timber.
It is not so very long ago that South African timber was taken all round, considered of little value. Now that imported timber has gone up in the market, many virtues have been discovered in the native timber which previously were unknown. In consequence, South African timber has come to the front, so that it figures prominently in many instances. Sawing timber, such as Cape pine, poplar, yellow wood, blue gum and other varieties, cut into standard deals of 3 by 9 inches, is quoted at 10½ pence to 1 shilling per foot. This timber is used mostly for boxes and packing cases, as well as substitutes in the mines and buildings for the imported Baltic woods.

Russia's Greatest Ruler.
St. Petersburg, the modern capital of Russia, now known as Petrograd, was founded in 1703 by Peter the Great, who died 194 years ago. Peter first built a small hut for himself and a few wooden hovels. The majority of nobles, however, preferred that Moscow should remain the seat of government, but Peter was determined to build a new capital, and in 1711 he laid, with his own hands, the foundation of his palace, which was built of brick. Peter was an extraordinary character and Russia's rise to a great power was entirely due to his genius.

Holland's mines yield about 2,000,000 tons of coal annually, about one-fifth the country's requirement.

Mothers' Advice

The responsibility for a daughter's future largely rests with the mother. The right influence and the information which is of vital interest to the daughter imparted at the proper time has not only saved the life but insured the success of many a beautiful girl. When a girl's thoughts become sluggish with headaches, dizziness, or a disposition to sleep, pains in back or lower limbs and a desire for solitude, her mother should come to her aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start this trying period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities. Thousands of women residing in every part of the United States bear willing testimony to the wonderful virtues of this medicine, and what it has done for their daughters.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound enough for what it has done for my daughter. She was 15 years of age, very sickly and pale and she had to stay home from school most of the time. She suffered agonies from backache and dizziness and was without appetite. For 3 months she was under the doctor's care and got no better, always complaining about her back and side aching so I did not know what to do. I read in the papers about your wonderful medicine so I made up my mind to try it. She has taken five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and doesn't complain any more with her back and side aching. She has gained in weight and feels much better. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to all mothers and daughters."—Mrs. M. F. FROX, 516 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

WILL MORAN TRY TO "SOUTHPAW" WHITE SOX TO DEATH?

More and more does it look as though nothing can prevent the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox from being the paces of the first and second part in the world series this fall. And Cincinnati fans have all doped out that one part of Moran's plan of attack in the big classic will be to send Dutch Reuther and Slim Sallee against the Sox as many times as possible in an effort to "southpaw" the left-handed batters of the Sox to death. As the Sox lineup stands now the first four men up are left-handed batters—Leibold, Collins, Weaver and Jackson. It is an accepted fact that southpaws are harder for left-hand batters to hit than are right-hand hurlers. Reuther and Sallee are two of Moran's pitching aces and crack pitchers.

REDS CAN'T LOSE NATIONAL TITLE

Tuesday's Game Clinches Pennant For Moran's Bunch Even If New York Was Opponent.

Cincinnati Sept. 17.—By beating New York yesterday before a crowd of 18,000 people the Cincinnati club clinched the pennant in the National League. The Reds have seven more games to play and, even if they should lose all of them while the Giants won all of the 11 games remaining on their schedule, the local club would finish one game ahead. The score yesterday was 4 to 3. Reuther pitched the full game for the Reds and was hit hard, being frequently saved by sensational support. Toney pitched well for New York after the first inning but his support was faulty. He was taken out in the seventh and Nehf finished the game without allowing a hit.

New York scored twice in the first inning on a pass to Burns and singles by Kauff and Stutz. In the last half of the same round the Reds scored three runs on Fletcher's wild throw on Ruth's grounder and hits by Roush, Kopf and Neale. New York tied in the fourth on successive hits by Burns, Kauff and Frusch. A fine throw to the plate by Roush prevented Kauff from counting when he tried to come home from second on Frusch's hit to center. Reuther was fairly effective during the last half of the game. The Reds won in the seventh which Schreiber opened with a double. First base Rearden hit a fly toward first base which Kelly muffed and then threw to third in an attempt to get Schreiber, but was too late. Toney was then relieved by Nehf, and Schreiber scored the winning run on Reuther's grounder to Doyle on which Rearden was forced to second. The batting of Kauff and Stutz for New York and the fast fielding of the entire Cincinnati team were the features which were announced by Chairman Hays yesterday that the national commission will meet here at 10 o'clock next Monday morning to complete the arrangements for the world's series.

LEGAL NOTICE.

Carrie Campion, Benjamin F. Wells, Ella Robey and Alice Divan, whose places of residence are unknown, will take notice that on the 26th day of August, 1919, Albert G. Welsh and Joseph N. Pugh filed their certain amendment and supplement to their answer and cross-petition heretofore filed in the case of Olive M. Cahill vs. Albert G. Welsh, et al., being case No. 18795, pending in the Court of Common Pleas of Licking county, O., making the above-named Carrie Campion, Benjamin F. Wells, Ella Robey and Alice Divan, joint and several defendants in the above-entitled action, and on the same date, William Jasper Linton filed his certain amendment and supplement to his answer and cross-petition heretofore filed in the same case No. 18795, making the parties aforesaid parties defendant.

Wells, Ella Robey and Alice Divan claim some interest in and to said real estate as heirs-at-law of Cora Wells or Olive M. Cahill, Albert, or otherwise, but the said Joe Albert, Carrie Campion, Benjamin F. Wells, Ella Robey and Alice Divan have, in fact, no right, title, or interest in said real estate, and that their claim is a cloud upon the title of the said defendants in and to said real estate, and that the above-named persons, Joe Albert, Carrie Campion, Benjamin F. Wells, Ella Robey and Alice Divan are barred by the judgment of the Court of Appeals of Licking county, O., in the case of Albert G. Welsh vs. Benjamin F. Wells, et al., being case No. 1297, Court of Appeals, Licking county, O., and of the finding of the court in case of Albert G. Welsh vs. Benjamin F. The above-named persons are hereby notified that they are required to answer said amendment and supplement to the answer and cross-petition of Albert G. Welsh, Joseph N. Pugh and William Jasper Linton, on or before the 18th day of October, 1919, or that judgment will be rendered in accordance with the answer and supplement to the answer and cross-petition of Albert G. NOTE Critics who have seen "Till I Come Back To You" have said that it compares with "The Birth of a Nation," "Hearts of the World," "Civilization" and others.

SEE IT—DON'T SAY, "O, IT'S A WAR PICTURE"

"When," says King Albert of Belgium, "this young man and others like him (indicating the Americans) have brought back the fires to the cold hearts of my people, joy to the hearts of the women, and smiles to the lips of the children; when every vestige and every token of the terrible Hun has disappeared from my country, then and not till then, will I come back to you."

This is just one of the thrilling and soul-stirring incidents that make "Till I Come Back To You" one of the very greatest stories of the war.

AMUSEMENTS

AUDITORIUM

Mary Pickford

Society girls who take life as one continual round of automobiles, parties and expensive frocks may get some new ideas of how to lavish wealth if they will see "The Hoodlum," starring Mary Pickford, produced by her and which will be seen at the Auditorium today last times.

As Amy Burke, Miss Pickford depicts the part of a girl whose chief life problem is how to spend money. Amy's day begins with a lesson from a high-priced tutor who is awed by her vast wealth and consequently quite indifferent as to her education. Her other diversion is a high-priced roadster which she pilots around with the speed of a race track marvel. Her wealthy but unscrupulous grandfather has also employed a groom who accompanies her on all auto excursions and whose advice she does not heed.

This feature has attracted large crowds and no doubt capacity crowds will see the closing showings today.

"Till I Come Back to You."

To recount the many exceptional motion pictures directed by Cecil B. De Mille, and released by Artcraft, is like giving a catalogue of the foremost film offerings of the past several years, for they have invariably been notable for their quality, finesse, power, dramatic strength and originality, technically and artistically.

Cecil B. De Mille, of a long line of dramatic experts, comes to the work equipped as few men are and he has so improved upon his opportunities and natural gifts that he stands today at the pinnacle of excellence and good taste in film direction. He recognizes the necessity of thought behind a picture, the psychological aspects appeal to him pre-eminently and he has put into his offerings that degree of careful consideration of detail as well which renders them superlative in every respect. Mr. De Mille said recently:

"There is a message to be conveyed by the motion picture—a very definite message and one that every conscientious director and producer is striving valiantly to get across. It is a message of Life, itself."

There lies the keynote of De Mille's greatness in his work. He interprets life. He has caught the psychology of expression and feels his work, realizing that if he fails to do so, he will fall short of his aims.

"The more light I put into my work, the better the result," declares Mr. De Mille. And his dramas of Life have been epochal in the history of the screen.

His direction of "Till I Come Back to You," which will be shown at the Auditorium theatre Thursday and Friday was incomparable. The delicacy, the human touch, the conception of the theme, the handling of details, the broad treatment of the big moments—all are evidences of the fact that there are few men in the world capable of making a motion picture with the finesse and skill of Mr. De Mille.

Jeanie Macpherson, author of "Till I Come Back to You," is a scenario writer of more than ordinary ability. Indeed, she comes into the scale of pictureplay authors at the same point that Cecil B. De Mille enters the ranks of the directors—at the very topmost door.

"A Night in Honolulu."

The scenes of this latest play of Hawaiian life are laid on the island of Hawaii. There are three acts. The action takes place in a small village on the bay of Hilo, not far from the volcano Kilauea. It concerns an episode in the life of a beautiful Hawaiian voodoo woman, an Englishman and their child. The play reveals the story of a night long past as one pictures—a terrific storm raging on the outside of a hut. The voodoo woman, amid the chants and weird music of her native companions is heard praying for the recovery of her infant who lies near death and for the safe return of her lover, who has gone to Hilo. An old Servitor enters and tells her the lover will never return to her, that he has gone to Hilo to await the arrival of the boat from England, which will bring him his wife and baby. He swears by the great goddess Pele that his information is correct, shows her from the window the English vessel driven far out of her course by the storm and struggling in the breakers sending out calls for help.

"Night in Honolulu" comes to the Auditorium Saturday. Seats on sale Thursday.

"The Uplifters."

Beauty, Truth and Love, in the persons of May Allison, Kathleen Kerrigan and Pell Trenton meet again in "The Uplifters," the latest Metro play in which Miss Allison is starred.

This ideal trio appeared in "Everywoman," the Henry V. Savage production in which Miss Allison made her stage debut. She was seen as Beauty while Miss Kerrigan enacted Truth, and Pell Trenton the King of Love. Separated since then by work in other productions these three friends meet again in this clever comedy which will be shown at the Auditorium theatre Sunday next.

Howe's Pictures.

Lyman H. Howe's Travel Festival, which comes to the Auditorium theatre Thursday, Sept. 25, upon its silver jubilee tour, will bring a number of remarkable motion picture novelties and trick pictures created at the Howe laboratories.

Mr. Howe was the first American to make trick pictures and animated cartoons and his process, unlike any other and said to be far better, is fully protected by patents. At his big laboratories a staff of artists works throughout the year making the film novelties many months being frequently required to create a single short picture.

Among the remarkable novelties on the anniversary program is "Jungle Vaudeville," a funny and, at the same time, decidedly interesting, series showing a circus performance of real animals in the wilds. It required more than a year to gather and put this novelty together.

Neil O'Brien Minstrels.

The Neil O'Brien Minstrels, new in every respect, will be the attraction at the Auditorium next Wednesday. This attraction has rapidly grown to be leading organization of its kind in America and that the reputation of the company may be still further enhanced, Manager Oscar P. Hodge promises a number of novelties for the present season. Mr. O'Brien, who has long been recognized as America's foremost writer and producer of black-face comedy acts has written no less than three new sketches for this year's production. There will be a new song and dance, written by Mr. O'Brien and Munich in History.

With the history of Munich the name Louis is inseparable. It was Louis the Severe who, in the thirteenth century, gave the city a start by living there, and Emperor Louis, the Bavarian, next in succession, who built the first city wall. The city owes its beginning to Duke Henry the Lion, who established a mint there in 1158 and built a bridge across the Isar so he might levy toll on the salt from springs of Reichenhall and neighboring villages. The city occupies the site of the ancient monastery Tegernsee, hence its name (munichen, the monks).

"The Only Effective Means of Conserving the Waning Supply of Natural Gas Is to Raise the Price Gradually Until It Approaches the Cost of Manufactured Gas for Fuel Purposes."

The following are the conclusions of Dr. Israel C. White, State Geologist of West Virginia, technologist and one of the recognized highest authorities on the subject of Natural Gas and mineral resources. These conclusions are the final analysis of an exhaustive review made by Dr. White of the Appalachian gas areas in July, 1919, and the soundness of this eminent authority's deductions can not be successfully disputed. They summarize the situation as regards depletion, and emphasize the need of applying at once the remedy to stop waste, and establish a sound conservation of remaining supply.

Dr. White says:

"Looking back across a span of years which has seen the rise, of both the oil and gas industry, and speaking as a business man and also as State Geologist of West Virginia and in that sense a kind of guardian of the State's mineral resources, my studies have led me to the following conclusions concerning the natural gas situation in the Appalachian fields:

(1) Approximately three-fourths of the original supply of natural gas in the West Virginia fields is already exhausted, much more than half of which has been wasted without any attempt at utilization.

(2) Of the portion used for domestic purposes at least 70 to 80 per cent. is now wasted through the use of crude burners resulting in bright flames instead of blue, and also through lack of intelligent methods of applying the flame to the object to be heated.

(3) Natural gas practically double in heating value the best grade of manufactured gas has always been sold too cheap, and this more than any other cause has led to its universal waste and wasteful use.

(4) It is such a pure and cleanly fuel and so limited in supply that it should have been preserved entirely for domestic use, and its introduction into general industrial purposes was an economic mistake which should speedily be remedied.

(5) The only effective means of conserving the waning supply of natural gas, and prolonging its life to a distant future for domestic purposes is to raise the price of the same gradually until it approaches the cost at which manufactured gas can be furnished for fuel purposes, since otherwise it will be impossible for the producing and marketing companies to maintain a satisfactory supply to those who prefer to use gaseous fuel.

(6) This increased price (even two or three times) over that now charged the domestic consumer would not necessarily increase the cost of his fuel bills over that which he now pays, in fact in most cases it would lead to a reduction of the same through the intervention of more efficient burners and more intelligent use of the same whereby the 80 per cent. of the available heat in natural gas now ordinarily wasted by the consumer, would be conserved and utilized. During the colder months of the year, at least, an advancing rate should be charged those who consume large quantities of gas in a wasteful manner, and the industrial use of natural gas should be restricted to those manufacturing concerns that can from the nature of their product afford to pay the domestic rate, since the gradual rise suggested in natural gas rates would enable manufacturing enterprises to change without hardship to other forms of fuel, or if they desire, install their own fuel gas plants, thus availing themselves of gaseous fuel at first cost.

(7) Should our Public Service Commission adopt the policies herein suggested, the following benefits would come to all:

(a) Waste of gas would soon be effectually checked not only in the field, but along the great pipe lines as well as at the points of consumption.

(b) The farmer or original owner of the gas could be paid a much larger sum for the right to secure, and transport this product to market.

(c) The life of the Appalachian gas fields could be so greatly prolonged, just how many decades no one can accurately forecast, that manufactured gas could gradually and insensibly replace the vanishing natural product without any interruption in the supply of gaseous fuel so greatly prized by those who have enjoyed the wonderful convenience of its use.

(d) Gas shortage and insufficient service would be things of the past, and while the income of the gas companies would certainly be greatly decreased at first with the decreased consumption which higher rates are sure to cause, especially in manufacturing enterprises, yet the decreased expense incident to drilling so many new wells in a vain effort to keep up the failing supply, would tend to affect the smaller receipts to a considerable extent, and finally with increasing prices enable them to earn a reasonable profit, as also gradually to supplement the deficiency of natural gas with the manufactured product, and thus continue indefinitely in the business of supplying fuel gas to their patrons instead of gradually cutting off one consuming center after another with the failing natural gas supply, and finally junking the entire outfit.

(8) In view of these conclusions which are as surely true, as that two and two make four, why should not the domestic consumer of natural gas in his own interest join with the producer of natural gas in beseeching our Public Service Commissions to increase the present ruinous low rates for this product, not a few cents per thousand cubic feet each YEAR, but a few cents every MONTH, until the price of the same approaches $1.00 per 1000 cubic feet, the basic cost at which a good grade of manufactured gas can be supplied with which to augment the declining supply of this natural article, instead of opposing every effort at price readjustment upward which immutable economic law must eventually compel with all the evils attendant upon the disorganization and failure of a great industry?

NOTE:—The management of the gas company, desiring a full and free discussion of this question, invites its patrons to indicate by letter to the company their opinions on the question of failing supply and what must be done to conserve it. Incidentally for their enlightenment in considering this problem we have prepared a booklet containing information data and recommendations from the most eminent authorities on the subject, which we will be pleased to send to any patron who will fill out and mail us this coupon with his name and address.

CANTIGNU HEROES

But it was to the line of khaki-clad, brown faced men themselves that first interest of the thronging crowds all along the wide avenue turned. The home coming of this first unit of American man power to cross the submarine-infested seas was in marked contrast to the silent, mysterious, unreported departure, and the men and women along the way seemed to feel the significance of the spectacle. They recalled the days when the nation waited in wordless anxiety to hear that these same smiling, freestriding boys had come safely to a French harbor, those other days when the first ward filtered back that the boys had begun to prove their courage in action and the slow coming lists that carried the names of the men who sleep forever in France.

To one regiment of long, firm "As" an unusual honor was accorded. The Sixth field artillery was placed between the two infantry brigades instead of marching with the rest of the artillery brigade behind the infantry. For it was C battery of the Sixth which fired the first shot at the Germans on Oct. 23, 1917. A standard told the onlookers that at last they saw the very guns whose roar had carried that first message of defeat into the enemy ranks.

Throughout the long line markers were frequent telling what the strange implements of war over which they floated were used for. Among the watchers were postmen, newspapermen, sunds of government clerks who have death for months with endless streams of papers talking of bombs and guns and mortars, of motor machine shops, pontoon bridges, machine guns, gas throwers, flame projectors and all the other complicated war equipment of the troops. Never before have these workers at home seen all these tools of warfare in their own warlike setting, however, and the parade was an education for them.

Up the avenue at the head of the division rode Major Edward F. McGlellin, commanding, and with him rode two former commanders of the division the first to go and the last of the divisions to come home. They were Major General William L. Sibert, who took it to France, and Lieutenant General Robert L. Bullard, who took it into action and surrendered command only to the formations, also came a host of officers and men who saw their first service with the First Division in France, later to go to other units as instructors.

Then came the First infantry brigade, marching in the French mass formation, 24 men abreast across the avenue, led by the Third machine gun battalion with its motorized guns. The infantry marched in column of fours, four companies abreast and with officers and lieutenants ahead, leaving the men to form a solid block of bayonets for each battalion. The 16th infantry, veterans of the bitter fighting at Cantigny where France learned in what fashion Americans could and would fight and breathe free again after months of strangled way. After its three battalion blocks had passed came the 18th infantry in similar formation followed by the First machine gun battalion of the gade composed of the 25th and 28th infantry and the Second machine gun battalion, then the long lines of "75's" and the motor drawn "155's" of the First artillery brigade, the Fifth and the 7th field artillery. The horse-drawn guns and limbers of the Fifth rolled by three columns abreast and the Seventh puffed and panted along with its heavier guns in the same formation.

The regular trains of the divisions followed, the First engineer regiment leading the way with the First engineer train behind it to be succeeded by the Second signal battalion. Then came the almost endless waves and trucks, trains of the ammunition, supply and sanitary trains and the first company, military police and finally the hospital trains, the Second, Third, 12th and 13th ambulance companies and field hospitals.

At various points in the divisional line and before the wallowing tanks hammered and clattered in an unbroken conclusion to the two hour spectacle of masses of additional units, part of the division itself, were inserted. These included searchlight trucks, ordnance machine shops, units on motor trucks, sound ranging devices for detecting the position of hidden guns, sound ranging for spotting air raiders at night and much other mechanical equipment that has played a constantly growing part in the war.

So far as the First division itself is concerned, the official record of its activities during the war recently published by the war department speaks for itself. It stood 93 days in active sectors of the front against 123 in quiet parts of the line; it fought its way forward over 51 kilometers of territory; it captured 163 German men; it captured also 119 German guns; 62 trench mortars and 413 machine guns. It lists 4,411 officers and men killed or died of wounds and had 17,291 men wounded or gassed in the days it spent at the front and lost only 152 of its own personnel as prisoners to the enemy. Its replacements were greater than its original strength, 30,200 and 516 of its men won such shining service crosses for conspicuous gallantry in action.

MEAT PACKER HAD NO APPETITE FOR THE BEST MEALS

Would Eat Two or Three Mouthfuls and was Through Stomach Out of Order and Pains Over His Kidneys Bothered Him.

Now Declares He Eats Heartily Meals: Pains All Gone and He is Feeling Fine, Thanks to Drecto, the New Remedy.

"I saw in the papers about the new remedy, Drecto, and how so many people right here in town were boasting it, so I got a bottle," says Mr. Herman R. E. Minger, who lives at 510 East Peck St., Columbus, O., and is a meat packer for Blumer-Sargain Co.

"I was in bad shape," he continued. "My entire system was run down, and I needed something to build me up. My appetite was poor; I never did eat but two or three mouthfuls, then I was through. My kidneys were acting bad, and I had dull, aching pains in my back. I started taking Drecto, and after taking one-half bottle I could tell the difference; my appetite picked up and the pains were not so bad. I kept on taking the medicine and soon my pains were all gone. I could eat my meals and enjoy them. My sleep became sound; the lazy drowsy feeling passed away; no more headaches; bowels move easy and regular. I will be glad to tell any one about this fine medicine."

Drecto is a combination of the juices and extracts of many medicinal herbs and plants, which act on the vital organs. Drecto relieves constipation, strengthens weak kidneys, rouses a sluggish liver to full action and aids the stomach to carry its load.

All good druggists now sell Drecto and it is highly recommended in Newark by Evans' Cut-Rate Drug Store.—Advt.

It is folly to surrender to these depressing feelings when this famous family tonic is at hand to tone you up in body and mind. Mr. Wilson proves it:

Nerv-Worth Co.—I had nervous indigestion and a lack of pep at night. I would get up in the morning tired and listless. Hardly had ambition enough to get on my clothes I have been using your Nerv-Worth about two weeks and I am greatly improved.

DRIVE URIC ACID FROM YOUR SYSTEM

AMBICTION SALTS Most people need an occasional remedy to make the eyes bright, the skin clear, the stomach strong, the blood pure and the liver and kidneys healthy. If you're out of sorts, lack the vim, vigor and "pep" you'd like to have, try AMBICTION SALTS—the new, pleasant, effervescent kind. They start you right in the morning. Cleanse your system of the dangerous uric acid poison which is responsible for so much indigestion, biliousness, headache, acid stomach, rheumatism and kidney and liver trouble. Forget the ailments and miseries that make life a burden and be your old self again. A large bottle of AMBICTION SALTS costs only fifty cents at T. J. Evans' and money will be refunded on the first bottle purchased if you are not satisfied. Try this. It's surely worth while to feel ambitious, to have the energy which makes you go to work eagerly, to accomplish to your satisfaction what you have to do, to feel again the glow of perfect health, strength and vigor.
